

What kind of fish is THIS?

This is a Coho Salmon and they are found in rivers right here in Indiana! They are a silver gray to a vibrant pink or red as they move through fresh water and usually weigh between 7-11 pounds but might grow as big as 36! As the fish gets older, the teeth and jaws become “hooked” giving it a more ferocious look to other predators. Can you connect all the dots?

Don't forget
to draw my
eyes,
fins,
and colors!

For more information on healthy fish, please visit ISDH online at <http://www.in.gov/isdh/23650.htm>

